

Annual data sharing sessions with stakeholders

Each August the EPP hosts data sharing sessions with stakeholders. The goal is to invite discussions between the EPP's teacher education faculty and K-12 educators from partnering school districts that work with our teacher candidates and often hire our completers. The intent is to share enough data to provide an overview of teacher candidate preparation without overwhelming the EPP stakeholders. Typical data that are shared include the data from student teaching experiences, exit surveys, completer surveys, and employer surveys. The data involve ratings from cooperating teachers, student teachers, first-year teachers, and employers. Using multiple assessments gathered from multiple perspectives is beneficial

The EPP has hosted annual data sharing sessions each year since 2009. The stakeholders also participate in providing feedback on new assessments such as the student teaching assessment or most recently the newest version of the EPP's disposition assessment form.
